Artisanship for wellbeing

At todobarro, we've spent decades shaping clay with our hands and fire.

Today, we present Ribera, a collection of planters that blends craftsmanship with bioclimatic intelligence: porous pieces that help regulate temperature and humidity, caring for your plants and the space you live in.

Each planter is thrown on the wheel by hand, sun-dried slowly, and fired at over 900 °C. The result is a living object that evolves over time, gaining character with the natural salts that bloom on its surface.

Because ceramic beauty doesn't end at the kiln — it begins in your home.

ribera collection

Ribera is the first flower pot collection by todobarro: 100% handcrafted, wheel-thrown, and made with natural clay. Its tubular, organic shape maximizes soil volume, while the natural clay helps regulate moisture and temperature. Explore its 16 combinations of size, texture, and color—each with a matching saucer.

handcrafted, one by one

Each planter is shaped by hand, guided by the artisan's touch and experience. No two pieces are alike — just unique objects with a soul of their own.

the beauty of the unrepeatable

Finger marks, colour shifts, subtle irregularities — they're not flaws, but signs of authenticity. These pieces are crafted, not manufactured.

naturally bioclimatic

Terracotta breathes. The combination of earth, water and greenery enables evapotranspiration, cooling the surrounding air and supporting a healthy microclimate for both people and plants.
